

TSCN

YOUR DOCTOR. YOUR CARE TEAM.

A familiar guide for your next step.

Your doctor participates in TSCN to give patients access to care coordination and a network of independent doctors.

MEET YOUR CARE COORDINATOR

Your care coordinator gets to know you, listens to your concerns, and helps you understand what happens next.

HELP WITH THE NEXT STEP

Care coordinators can help with scheduling questions and problems that arise during care coordination. They can contact your referring doctor when needed.

YOUR CHOICE MATTERS

You can call the doctor's office directly. You can also ask your care coordinator for help understanding your scheduling options.

CONNECTED TO YOUR DOCTOR

Ask your doctor whether you should return after the specialist visit. Your referral is based on a specific medical reason and your best interests.

Ask your doctor's office to introduce you to your TSCN care coordinator.

Care coordinators help with coordination. Medical advice and treatment decisions remain with your treating clinicians.

TSCN

WHY WE CAME TOGETHER

Care should feel more connected.

WE BECAME DOCTORS TO HELP PEOPLE

We chose medicine because we wanted to help people understand their medical problems, find answers, and get the care they need. That purpose still guides us.

HEALTHCARE CAN FEEL DISCONNECTED

You may have had to repeat your story, track down records, make several calls, or wonder what happens after a referral. Care is not always as connected as patients need—or as we doctors want it to be.

INDEPENDENT PRACTICES FEEL THE STRAIN, TOO

Behind each visit, small practice teams juggle appointments, records, insurance paperwork, and communication with other offices. These demands can take time away from the personal attention doctors want to give you.

WHY WE FORMED TSCN

We formed TSCN to bring independent doctors and care coordination closer together. By sharing support and improving communication, we aim to make the steps between offices easier for patients and their families.

YOUR DOCTOR, WITH MORE SUPPORT

Your care coordinator can help you understand the next step, work through coordination problems, and contact your doctor when needed. Your treating doctors remain responsible for medical advice and treatment.

OUR PURPOSE

To help patients find their way through care—and help doctors spend more time doing what brought us to medicine: listening, caring, and helping people.
